Just Hold Her

A Foster Mother's Memoir of Medicine, Caregiving, and the Long Nights Together

by Judy Wright

FREE AUTHOR VISIT · READING · CONVERSATION · Q&A

They were asked to take in a baby not expected to survive.
"Would you, please... just hold her until she dies?"

They said yes.

What followed was not dramatic. It was daily.
Diaper. Reading. Injection. Feeding.
Every two hours. Through the night. For months.

Just Hold Her is a story about the quiet work of caregiving, and what it means to stay.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Judy Wright fostered fifty-five children over twelve years alongside her husband, John. In 2012, they were named Michigan Foster Parents of the Year by the Michigan Supreme Court.

She now lives in Raleigh, North Carolina.

WHAT A VISIT INCLUDES

- 30–45 minutes — a short reading, conversation, and time for questions
- Signed copies available for attendees
- Discussion questions provided for book clubs or group programs
- Flexible scheduling — mornings, afternoons, or evenings
- No fee. Judy volunteers her time.

CONVERSATION MAY INCLUDE

The middle-of-the-night work no one sees
What it means to keep showing up when nothing changes
How small routines carry a life

> "It is not a story of rescue. It is a story of witness."
>
> — Just Hold Her

A story for anyone who has cared for someone or sat beside them when it mattered.

To schedule a visit:

speaking@justholdher.com · justholdher.com

Ebook available now · Print June 1, 2026 · Held Close Books